

Q.U.I.T IS ON EASTER PARADE . . . THEY'RE GOING ON 3

All dressed up, the quints came out for their Easter show. Emilie (left) has her skirts and bends a knee, with the wall close by for security.

"Oh, so that's how it's done," Easter parading has a special technique of its own, Marie (right) as she prepares to make her debut.

This might not conform with Easter etiquette, but Cecilie no doubt finds it comfortable to sit on the floor after that long stage of dancing. At least she appears contented.

Next in line with personal Easter greetings is smiling girl Yvonne, hinting just a bit of shyness as she shyly turns in her toe.

Amorette is in the limelight now, and, girl-like, just must get that ray of light on her will look nice for her coming out.

IRISH REVOLT ANNIVERSARY CAUSES RIOTS

President Places Wreath On Graves Of Executed Leaders

DUBLIN, March 20.—Republicans through Ireland yesterday commemorated the 1916 Easter rebellion. The Irish Free State responded to the tramp of men in hundreds of parades and marches between police and demonstrators led by the Irish Republican Army, however, police took no action against a ceremony announced as the anniversary of "all who died for Ireland."

LAYS WREATH

Minor incidents developed in Dublin, Cork and Limerick when police endeavored to halt the street sale of the Irish tricolor flag. In the Irish republican army on the technical grounds official permission had not been sought for public collection.

RELIEF STORM

A minor storm may blow up over the relief bill. Conservative Leader R. B. Bennett's disavowal with that government's £20 million relief bill for the unemployed has caused a storm in the House of Commons. The bill is expected to be passed by the House of Commons.

IS ARRESTED

Thurston, a Newport, which culminated in the arrest of 18 men, occurred when a party of exiles from the United States attempted to rush a police station. They were charged with carrying stones and the superintendent released a head wound.

Japanese Envoy's Home Attacked

TOKYO, March 20.—A store was set on fire in the home of the Japanese ambassador at Moscow yesterday, officials advised. The Japanese foreign office reported today that the dispatches said Soviet police arrested a young Communist.

Where Fishing's Fine

PORT STANLEY, Ont., March 20.—An assessment was made last night of the amalgamation of the Niagara and the Star, Gordie's two weekly newspapers.

OTTAWA, March 20.—The back of the parliamentary session should be broken this week, most think to engage the attention of house of commons members have already been discussed in one form or another. Old parliamentaries say nothing speeds the end of the session as much as a few morning sessions.

FOR CORONATION

The bill to amend the act April 10 has been sent to the mark to shoot at for prorogation. The session may still open into the next week, but there would still be simple line for the parliamentary session.

SPILT ADMITTED

"It would be futile to deny that there is a division among the ranks of the Social Credit members. On the one hand we have those who claim the orthodox budget is absolutely necessary under present conditions, and on the other hand we have those who believe that such a budget is not only unnecessary but actually detrimental to the implementation of Social Credit and that the bringing in of the new bill, the Social Credit bill, followed by, or fortified by a Social Credit budget, would be the first immediate step of the session of the legislature."

ALL SINCERE

"I would like to state my belief that there is absolute sincerity and honesty of purpose on both sides of the question and that every single member of the Social Credit party has set his heart on one distinction only, namely, the putting into effect in Alberta, a Social Credit plan as early as possible."

THE PRACTICAL POINT

Parliament has discovered there are one hundred and fifty old Imperial statutes, handed down from colonial times, which still have the force of law in Canada. It is taking the liberty of abolishing one, the Foreign Enlistment Act, passing a statute to mean much the same thing.

From which it is argued parliament might repeal another Imperial statute, known as the British North America Act, which has been amended and placed to amend the national constitution as it pleased. Which may conceivably be good reasoning.

But, in any case, the point is rather academic.
Parliament would have no trouble getting the Act amended, or even repealed, if it wanted. The difficulty is not that the mechanism for revision will not work, but that parliament has not decided in what respects, and with what objectives, revision should be made. Until there is consensus of opinion on that point there is no gain or loss to arguing about it, or about by whom revision should be done if it were wanted.

FRANCE TRIES IT OUT

France is taking over its munition factories.
Thirty giving other countries a free demonstration as to the possibilities of a "free" "taking the profits out of war." If the experiment succeeds in France, the policy of Government ownership of the munition industry will spread, for the desire to make war profitable to private enterprise is strong and growing everywhere.

France is obligingly putting the matter to the test. If after trial it has to hand back the factories, because the munitions are not up to standard or cost too much, there will be little likelihood of other countries trying to succeed where France has failed.

There is no reason, on paper, why a Government plant cannot turn out munitions as fast and as cheap as a private concern, while the dangers of allowing Zacheriasen to get his hands on through war scares are obvious. But paper plans do not always work out according to schedule.

France's experiment will be watched with keen interest abroad, particularly by those who have invested money in munition plants, and those who think there should be no such plants under private or corporation ownership.

TRYING TO CATCH UP

Canada's new coast-to-coast air service is to be company-owned but Government controlled.
The National Railways will organize the company. Organizations already engaged in aviation may become shareholders, and contribute "personnel, experience and equipment."
The Government will hold no stock, but reserves the right to buy all the stock at any time at "book value."

Private enterprise is being asked to supply the capital, operate the service, and take the risk for the sake of the profits. But should the service not be nationalized, because of the high or the public interest otherwise ignored or infringed upon, the Government may step in at any time, buy out the company and take over operation.

There seems little danger that private enterprise will fail to accept the offer. Aviation in Canada has been developed with a minimum of Government assistance, in the main with none at all, and at times in face of positive official opposition. The new coast-to-coast air service and subsidies and backed by Government support, is confidently expected to get under way during coming summer months, and will not fly fields and other ground equipment are ready.

Six years ago mail planes were flying the country on regular schedules. They were grounded as part of the "economy" way of fighting the depression, and have been grounded ever since. When the new coast-to-coast service gets going, the Dominion will be beyond the point where it left off the official encouragement of aviation five years ago. Every other important country on earth has had a coast-to-coast air service in the interval. Canada is still trying to catch up.

MAKE A JOB OF IT

The Calgary Alberta is naturally exuberant about the spread of Social Credit doctrine.
Almost everywhere it is going, it is going in for the new cult. It even plays a welcome hand in the contemporary, the Herald, to the ranks of the new converts.

A sense of humor is a saving grace, particularly when things are getting too complicated to be pleasant. One never knows, of course, where lightning will strike, or who may be the next to go off the deep end; still the exaggeration in this case is obvious, as well as diverting, and perhaps consoing in the hour of trouble.

But if Albertans are not all flocking into the fold, there is pretty general agreement that, having gone so far, we had better carry on the political experiment to a conclusion. This general inclination to see the thing through is what the Albertan in his pleasurable confusion as a sign of widespread repentance and a turning to the right.

Non-Social Crediters may take comfort from their Social Credit neighbors at this time, in hoping that the theory will be applied and given a fair opportunity to show whether it can make good the predictions. For the reason that should anything occur to prevent this thing done, there would remain many thousands of people firmly convinced that the theory is workable if it were only given a chance.

The Social Credit theory has succeeded or failed, it is better that it be put to the test of actual trial, and experiment thus reached that it is or is not a workable system, a remedy for the evils of involuntary idleness and undeserved want.

The province has endured a good deal of criticism and material loss because of what has been said and done in the name of Social Credit.
The best we can do is carry the thing through to the end, and if it fails, we will have learned the truth, and non-believers will be able to believe and non-believers will be able to believe.

Fifty Years Ago

From the Files of the Edmonton Bulletin

The result of the first parliamentary contest in the North West was that four supporters of high taxes, of locked up lands, of railway monopoly, of current government, when compared to the four who were in favor of good ending the political future of the North West must certainly be bright.

Lord Walsley has remarked on the fiction question between the United States and the United Kingdom. He has no patience about a quarrel about a kettle of fish. There have been too many disputes between the two countries settled in an off-hand manner and that game is played out.
Lord Walsley's reputation as a soldier rather than a diplomat is what has made the matter in the bounds of diplomacy now, and if he will kindly keep his powder dry and his tongue quiet Canada may be trusted to do the diplomacy part of the business, and the matter which would be a new departure in British diplomacy. The British are at all figures, but to diplomats when, as usual, they have never been a startling success.

Poems That Live

THE MAGIC MIRROR

The Magic Mirror makes not our wishes, Chances nor our hopes nor any dream of us;
It only shows back the thing it takes.

It is the heart's own ether that makes it glad,
And one's own bitterness will drive him mad.
It needs not that other help but he.

The Mirror makeseth none to rise or fall;
To him that hath not death no portion call;
To him that hath death is freely given all.

They see themselves who look in Fortune's face; Under the aid is wisdom Heaven's grace;
And to the souls that live in love's embrace.

Why Are You So Tired?

By DOCTOR FRANK MCCOY

If you could sit down and read all of the letters coming to me from all over the United States, I am sure you would be surprised to find how many of them mention "that tired feeling."

Abnormal tiredness may occur as an outstanding symptom in many chronic diseases, such as, for example, the patient with diabetes, anemia, tuberculosis or a prolapsus may complain of it. It may also occur as a symptom in the functional disorders, of which nervousness is a good example.

"Feeling tired all the time" may also be experienced by those who are having an attack of the condition popularly known as Spring Fever, although in these cases, it is common for it to disappear later on.

Dr. F. McCoy. This type of tiredness, therefore, lacks the persistence of the usual variety.

The symptom of tiredness is a purely subjective phenomenon—it is something which the subject feels and may not be examined in the same way that a broken leg may be examined.

When a person says that he is tired we take it for granted that he is experiencing the same feeling or sensation which others undergo after hard physical work.

When we study this sensation of persistent fatigue we find it true that people vary greatly in regard to their susceptibility to fatigue. Some are more quickly than others, and in some a prolonged period of rest is necessary before they throw off the tiredness and return to normal.

As a general rule, those having the slender type of body-build will be more likely to tire early than those of the chunky, sturdy type of body-build. The legs will be comparatively long when compared to the trunk, and the trunk space will tend to be long and narrow, indicating a lack of roomy width for the digestive organs, and the bones may be prominent.

Those of this type must therefore be more careful to guard against fatigue than one built along wider and more powerful lines.

The other symptoms which are experienced by those who are unduly tired are so numerous that an entire book might be written about them; however the following list includes the more frequent ones. The patient with chronic tiredness must exert effort; if he is sitting down, he hesitates before getting out of his chair, and if he is lying down, he is not inclined to rise.

There is a tendency to stop whatever he is doing to rest something else. He finds it hard to relax. Instead of maintaining an erect posture, there is a tendency to slouch over. The patient may find that his attention wanders while he is working and he may notice a peculiar sensation of the skin which he calls "itchiness" or "creeping."

The tired person is inclined to be over-irritable and is annoyed at himself for being annoyed over trifles. Mentally, he leans toward depression and depression, and toward anxiety about his physical condition. When it comes to social affairs, he is likely to feel too tired to go out and entertain his friends, and too much for him. Yet, if he does go, he is likely to find that under the stimulation of good company, the usual "itchiness" or "creeping" is lessened.

Many tired people are bothered by the fact that they seem to have lost the capacity to act spontaneously. They come to have the feeling that doing things must be done with a great deal of forethought and deliberation, and that his spark and his challenge. Very often, tired people will worry more over having lost the spirit of spontaneity than they will over the fact that they are "itchy" or "creeping."

Although extreme tiredness may seem to arise without a sufficient cause to explain it, it will usually be found that there is a physical or physical or mental cause, and that if this is removed, the tiredness will give way to renewed vigor and energy. In tomorrow's article, I will explain some of these causes, and the value of helping you to find out why you are so tired.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

QUESTION: R. V. U. asks: "Why do you not change from the 'old' to the 'new'?"

ANSWER: It is wholesome for children? Should one use wholehearted bread or toast?

ANSWER: With many people, there is a tendency to over eat on starchy foods such as bread and when too much is used it may serve to exclude other foods from the diet. Try making bread the principal starch at the meal. On doing this vigorous muscular work or exercising vigorously will be able to get the good out of bread and should use it often than one doing mental work. The whole wheat variety is excellent for the child, and may be used to advantage in preparing sandwiches for carrying in the pocket. In making bread, use white bread, use white bread, and make Melba Toast from it.
If you try to dehydrate the whole wheat bread it is not so good. The more to eat, the more it may develop an unpleasant taste. The bread question is one of the most important in dietetics, however, it should be settled according to the wishes of the individual. The more to eat, the more to eat, the more to eat, the more to eat.

QUESTION: R. V. U. asks: "Why do you not change from the 'old' to the 'new'?"

ANSWER: It is wholesome for children? Should
one use wholehearted bread or toast?

ANSWER: With many people, there is a tendency to over eat on starchy foods such as
bread and when too much is used it may serve
to exclude other foods from the diet. Try making bread the principal starch at the meal. On doing this vigorous muscular work or exercising vigorously will be able to get the good out of bread and should use it often than one doing
mental work. The whole wheat variety is excellent for the child, and may be used to advantage in preparing sandwiches for carrying in
the pocket. In making bread, use white bread, use white bread, and make Melba Toast from it.
If you try to dehydrate the whole wheat bread
it is not so good. The more to eat, the more
it may develop an unpleasant taste. The bread question is one of the most important in dietetics, however, it should be settled according to the wishes of the individual. The more to eat, the

The Passing Show

By J. S. COWPER

Captain Archibald S. Pither who went overseas in the Great War to make the world safe for democracy, knows now how much democracy there is in the good city of Toronto.

Capt. Pither makes his home in Vancouver.
Recently, with Mrs. Pither, he made a holiday trip to Toronto. Walking in the suburbs two Sunday afternoons ago he was wearing a pipeful of tobacco. He went, innocently enough, into a shop and bought a fifteen cent pack of smoking tobacco, not knowing that it is a crime to buy tobacco in Toronto on a Sunday.

An alert police-officer saw Capt. Pither come from the scene of the crime. He caught him red-handed, so to speak, with the little package of tobacco in his hand.

Arraigned in the police court along with the buna and thug, Capt. Pither explained that he was a stranger to the gothic city, and was unaware that it was an offence to buy tobacco on a Sunday. Ignorance of the law is no defence.
Every layman is supposed to know the law, and knowledge of what the lawyers and the judges themselves can rarely agree upon. So Capt.
Pither was fined two dollars and was given a 92 year old English law which the professional reformers had disintegrated.

Having laid in muddy trenches and faced artillery and machine gun fire to keep troops from gaining a foothold in Canada, Capt. Pither didn't feel like paying two dollars. If he won't he must go to prison. He went to prison. He went to prison rather than pay. Chalk up one of the triumphs of the Lord's Day Alliance, the sending of a Canadian officer to prison for buying a fifteen cent package of tobacco on a Sunday.

Crowded Agenda Now Facing Delegates To Teachers Convention

TECHNOCRAT TO SPEAK IN CITY NEXT SATURDAY

With a crowded agenda of reports, resolutions, lectures and discussions, the annual meeting of the Alberta Teachers' Association, which is being held in the Macdonald hotel, will begin its 26th annual provincial convention of the association in the Macdonald hotel.

The convention, which meets in Edmonton and Calgary, opened with a general business meeting Monday afternoon at which Mrs. A. W. Waterhouse, president of the association, was chairman. In attendance were 200 official delegates and many members.

The meeting was devoted to the presentation of reports by chairmen of various committees and to the discussion of the four resolutions submitted by the delegates. The resolutions were: 1. That the teachers' association should be a part of the provincial government. 2. That the teachers' association should be a part of the provincial government.

Looking Them Over

By Jack Kelly
Champions Again
Beware Beavers
The 'Duke' Passes

OVER the weekend, the Grads won the Alberta women's senior basketball championship, retaining it for the 17th consecutive time. It is the amazing thing about it is all that nobody doubts for a moment that they would do it. Winning provincial and dominion championships has come to be something that everyone expects the Grads to do, just like they expect the sun to rise and set. To appreciate this destiny continues, you have to back off and take a look at records in general. So as I have been able to discover, there has never been a record in any sport, anywhere, that compares even closely with that which the great Grads machine has piled up under the wizardry hand of Percy Page.

So impressive has the Grads record become that even keeping it straight is no small problem. Since 1915 the Grads have held the Alberta title with the one exception of 1928. That is 41 out of 42 possible 55 titles.

Had one team of super-stars been moulded together and run up a string of ten or twelve championships, the feat would have been amazing enough, but for the team to be rebuilt year after year with girls from a city with a population of only 85,000 and still win like clock-work is something that may never again be duplicated in sport. It might be easily done in some place where there was no competition, but down here for a minute that there isn't tough competition in Alberta. Owing largely to the influence of the Grads themselves, there is probably no province in Canada where there is as much basketball played by girls in proportion to the population as in Alberta. From the most remote country school has at least one basketball court and often two. Hoops are practically standard equipment—just like a basketball.

Anything May Happen Now

THE resignation of Coach Frank Coulson from the North Battleford Beavers has been the bombshell of the weekend in sport. So far as Albertans and Canadians in general are concerned, it came as a surprise without the slightest warning. No one but the players and club officials are in a position to know exactly what it is all about and each of them undoubtedly has his own private version.

However if you have made any bets on the Beavers, it would be a smart move to cover them up—unless you like playing long chances and you should have odds there.

For those not on the inside of the Beavers' trouble there is only one way to look at the situation. The team won 15 straight games in recent competition under Coulson's coaching. His control was blown up Saturday night and the club lost to a team they had beaten Thursday night 82-40. Any outfit that has a serious revolution like this in the middle of a title series is likely to be serious completely in its stride.

Bea Ready For Wenstob

SINCE last fall the most-discussed item in Alberta sports circles was the mooted clash between Eddie Wenstob and Tom of Fairview. The Wenstob management side-tracked the issue last fall by maintaining that it was impossible since Eddie was a lawyer and Tom a heavy. Since then however Wenstob has been fighting a number of heavier in the courts, even entering pleas for a large number of years.

As Rangers Score Stinging Triumph Over Leafs

In a bitterly fought hockey game, the New York Rangers defeated Toronto Maple Leafs, in Toronto, by a score of 3-0 in the first game of the third-place NHL playoffs. The first score came in the second period while "Red" Horner of Leafs was serving a major penalty for boarding. From this point on the Toronto Leafs put on desperate power play which was not for naught when they reached goalie Dave Kerr, who played a stellar game for the New Yorkers. In this picture

The New York team is weathering a Toronto rush in which the high scoring line of Jackson, Apollon and Driffler are the performers. Goalie Kerr is seen on his knees just after he cleared the puck which is at the LEFT. No 11 is Jackson, while Apollon is next and at the RIGHT the player in the white sweater is Gordie Driffler, all of Leafs. This was the first game of a best-of-three series.

CALGARY GIRL IS BRITAIN'S TENNIS STAR

Jeane Saunders is Young Alberta-Born Hopeful For British Team

By JACK BRADLEY

LONDON, March 20.—A little blonde Canadian girl from Calgary is sharing the tennis limelight with Britain's greats these days.

She is Jeane Saunders, 21, ranked seventh by the Lawn Tennis Association and picked by experts to make a berth on the next British Wimbledon Cup team.

IMPRESSIVE DEBUT

She made an impressive debut this year, reaching the semi-final round of the Queen's Club covered courts tournament where she came out victorious.

Her opponent in the semi-final was the British No. 2, a star of the opposition in the semi-final. The Calgary girl made the next to the last bracket by defeating Mrs. J. B. Pittman, a brilliant player, in 14, 6-3, 6-1, in a keen quarter final match.

Then she met Miss Stammers, who shared British junior doubles honors with her six years ago, and won in straight sets, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5. In nearly every game Miss Saunders had game point and then lost by nervous mistakes.

TERRIFIC MATCH

After the match Miss Stammers declared: "It was a terrific match. Miss Saunders is a very different girl to beat, and I think I did very well to win."

Said Miss Saunders: "After all, I hardly expected to beat her. I feel glad I could give her such a good beating."

Miss Saunders left Canada twenty years old. Her father, Victor Saunders, is a native Scot and her mother Canadian of Scottish extraction.

She learned her tennis in England when she was thirteen, and won the singles title in 1900 and 1901 and with Kay Stammers, the British doubles champion in 1901. The doubles title she won the same year.

She is a member of the Glasgow and Lawn Tennis Club.

Big Montreal Redmen Get 'Break' For 4-1 Triumph

Win Third Game To Capture Semi-Final Berth With New York Rangers; Tiny Thompson Destined To Be Gont

By SYDNEY GRISON

BOSTON, March 20.—Montreal Maroons, given a "break" and checking into the playoffs, came from behind second period elimination to defeat Boston Bruins 4-1 last night in their preliminary Stanley Cup hockey playoff.

Victory, second of the series, by the 4-1 score lifted the Stanley Cup holders of 1935-36 into the semi-finals against New York Rangers. Bruins were the second game here Tuesday night 4-1.

BLINCO HERE

Tiny Thompson, goaltender of a dozen Bruins seasons and a hero made of them, seemed destined to be the "great" of the Bruins' line and Joe Blinco, who fired what proved to be the winning goal, the hero of the Maroon triumph.

Nearly 17,000 fans watched the game at the Forum here last night. At 5:15 of the second period after 28 minutes of shut-out hockey, the goal that signalled the first opening of Maroon's offensive and their "break" came little more than 10 minutes later.

Joe Blinco came skating back from a penalty just in time to take a long blue line pass from Cy Wentworth, Grace, handed it to Earl Robinson, to beat the lone Bruins defenseman, "Red" Baker, fired. There was a goal, a second version to a goal it had been scored.

THOMPSON "GO"

The official scorer gave the goal to Thompson with assist to Robinson. Wentworth, Grace, though it was the majority of the play, Thompson was the star of the game. He was skating while to clear Robinson's shot. He also made a goal different version to a goal it had been scored.

They made another mistake, late in the second period, when they failed to take a blue line shot. They were out of the game. They were out of the game. They were out of the game.

Canadiens Rally Back with 3-1 Triumph

Earl to Wings' Rescue

By SYDNEY GRISON

BOSTON, March 20.—The Canadiens rallied back with a 3-1 triumph over Detroit Red Wings and saved the Bruins from elimination.

Playing like champions in their own backyard, Canadiens rallied to their first victory in the three-game series for the National Hockey League championship and qualification for the Stanley Cup finals. That Noren Smith, Detroit goaltender, was forced out of the battle in the second period with a leg injury kept nothing from their honours.

DRUMHELLER, March 20—The Burns Hotel, built in 1912, was razed Saturday night in a fire which for 90 minutes threatened to engulf the entire business block. The fire, originating in the rear of the hotel, spread to the east of the Valley Motors to the east of the hotel, and the Burns Hotel and the Red Bus Line office and garage. The hotel employees and guests had barely time to make their exit and many accident guests were unable to salvage personal effects.
